EVERYBODY GET TOGETHER

Homecoming Sunday was a wonderful day at the Dunn's Corners Church. We welcomed back our choir after their well-deserved time off over the summer. Many of our families and friends who had been away for the summer returned and worship was an uplifting time as we praised God for providing us a church home. Following the second service we had food, saw pictures of this summer's Vacation Bible School, and even had our own Dunn's Corners Band playing some fun music. When I poked my head in and listened, I heard these words from a classic 60's anthem, "Come on people now, smile on your brother, everybody get together, try to love one another right now."

Back in the day, the church I grew up in had a folk service that my parents enjoyed attending. We met in a small classroom, not the sanctuary, and the service was led by a young adult who knew how to strum a guitar and sing. We didn't have to sit in pews, it was a relaxed service, and someone always brought donuts. For a young kid like me who was ten or eleven, it was just about the perfect worship service. The songs often held out the hope that human beings would act in the right way toward one another, which was a basic message that connected with me. We would often sing the very same words I heard in our church halls on Homecoming Sunday. "Come on people now, smile on your brother, everybody get together, try to love one another right now."

Not only did that song take me back to my days as a child, the song written in the 60's spoke directly to the needs of today. Here in September of 2017 we have had major hurricanes named Harvey and Irma, and they have left a path of destruction. The work of recovery will take months and years and billions of dollars and countless hours of hard work. A disaster is an immediate call for people to come together to work and to help one another.

The hurricane that ravaged Houston and left much of the city flooded was particularly difficult for us, as we have family and know many friends. When you are not able to be there to help, it is a frustrating feeling. Still, we were proud of how the people of Houston responded. Neighbor helped neighbor. Those whose homes did not flood offered a bed and a place to sleep to those less fortunate. In flooded neighborhoods people pooled their resources and cooked all the meat from their freezers and had big dinners as they slowly worked their way out of the muck. Generators were fired up and homes without power came to life. So many lost their cars to flooding, but those whose cars were spared offered rides. Boats that were purchased for recreational use were put into service as rescue vehicles, carrying people to safety. And then there were simply images and stories of people who came together to hold one another, to hug, to shed tears, and to cling to hope. The soundtrack from the 60's would have fit perfect as scenes of kindness and compassion played out in real time.

Even as we felt guilt about not being able to be there to help, it occurred to me that these very same opportunities present themselves to us every day, right here where we live. It isn't as dramatic, and it isn't in response to a disaster that affects millions, but our daily lives are ripe with chances to get together, to smile on our brothers and sisters, and to love one another right now. A member has recently moved into a care facility. A friend showed up with a deck of cards and they had a fine time together. Some flowers were donated to church on a Sunday morning and those flowers showed up to brighten the day of someone in a difficult place. A plate of cookies made its way to the home of someone and spirits were lifted. Cars are put into use for trips to doctors, to treatment, to events, and to church. The rakes and hammers that we buy for our own homes are put to use when a neighbor is in need. Someone stops to listen, to hear a story, to provide some support. A phone call is made. A card is put in the mail. And of course, a hug is shared, an embrace that says we care, we are concerned, and we are here for you. Sometimes there are even tears of sadness and tears of comfort.

These are not small things. The same Jesus who said, "Take up your cross and follow me" also said we are blessed if we give even a cup of water to someone in need. We are human. We can't be everywhere for everyone. But we can be here in this place, here at this time, here for our neighbors, here for our friends, here for our community, here for those in need, here to listen, here to care, and here to share. Right here and right now I'm thankful for that wonderful group of musicians that were playing a song telling us to smile on our brothers and sisters, encouraging us to love one another right now. Right here. Right now. Everybody get together. I like that. I hope you do too.

Mission Trips: Dunn's Corners is trying to find out who may be interested in participating on a mission team to do hurricane recovery work to help those affected by Harvey and Irma. If you are interested or know someone who is interested, please sign up in Fellowship Hall. We will have a meeting on Monday, October 2nd at 6:00 pm in Fellowship Hall. We will talk about how we can respond. If we have interest, we might send one team down in the fall to help with the immediate need, and another team sometime next year to help with ongoing recovery. Dear Pastor Wayne, and Member of the Dunn's Corners Presbyterian Church,

Thank you for your support of the Haitian Health Foundation (HHF) Give-A-Goat Program. With the help of generous people like you, HHF has been working diligently to provide assistance to the people of Haiti after the devastation caused by October's Hurricane Matthew; however, there is a great deal more to be done, and our efforts are ongoing. Even now, the area continues to suffer and HHF continues to provide health care, food and food security strategies, reconstruction of houses, and support of micro-enterprise opportunities. Your generosity has made a difference in the lives of people terribly impacted by the storm and, for that, we thank you.

We are thrilled to report that we have now begun purchasing goats and we are resuming our goat distribution. As you know, Hurricane Matthew's winds and flooding killed most of the animals in our catchment area, including goats. In the months following the hurricane, it has been very difficult to find breeding goats for sale.

Goats are an important part of recovery after Hurricane Matthew. Recipients can breed their goats and sell or barter the offspring, providing some income as well as animal protein.

Enclosed is a photograph of the two goats you donated, and the grateful recipients. We know that you have been waiting to receive this and we appreciate your patience. Again, thank you for reaching out to vulnerable people trapped in poverty.

With appreciation,

*Thank you for your continued
generosity!
Warm regards,
Mari Lynn*

Presbyterian Women met on Monday, September 11th at noon and we enjoyed a sumptuous “bring something to share” luncheon. We also enjoyed learning about several mission projects taking place in Africa and here at home as well. Cindy Hatfield spoke about the “Dress a Girl Around the World” organization and brought several dresses that she had made to display. Karen Matheson represented “Quilts Beyond Borders” and told us about the orphanages that receive the quilts she and others have made. It was very inspirational and several of our members decided to support their efforts. If you are interested and would like to take part in these projects, please let us know. Quilts are already coming in to be donated!

October promises to be a busy, fun-filled month also.

- We will have lunch together at The Haversham on October 9th at 12 p.m. This is a time to relax and enjoy visiting with one another. Lunch will be followed by a very brief business meeting.
- On Saturday, October 21st we have been invited to attend a “Community Women’s Fellowship Tea” by the ladies of the Central Baptist Church. Lunch will be served as well, and this event is open to all women in the area. “Women of faith should be encouraging each other and supporting each other and our sister churches.”

If you are able to attend either of these functions please contact MaryAnn Phillips at 322-1465.

A Great Reunion

What a great reunion to have our old friend Dick Dannenfels lead our worship on Labor Day weekend. For most of you who did not know him, Dr. D. served us as an interim pastor for two and a half years before Reverend Jim Glenn received the call.

Dick was a two-term veteran of the Vietnam War who became a man of peace and healing. He taught many years at Harvard, and now is teaching and counseling at Yale, focusing on soldiers suffering from post-traumatic disorders.

Dick came to a very broken DCCCP at a time when there was only a handful of young families left. Over his tenure he brought love and laughter to the congregation, thus delivering a healed church for Jim to begin his ministry.

We will always be grateful for Dick, a great man of peace and of God.

Buildings and Grounds

As the summer winds to a close, Buildings and Grounds had a productive spring and summer. Starting with our spring clean up to the cleaning out of the meeting house, we have had a great many volunteers stepping forward to reach our goals.

In mid April we had a group of about fifteen volunteers come out and put their time into whipping the church grounds into shape after a long winter. I heard many compliments on the appearance of our church. Whether it was driving across town to water the gardens or cut the grass, many of you stepped forward faithfully.

In an effort to create a better learning atmosphere the Meeting House became a priority over the summer. The Tuesday morning work crew repaired the front door and the floor just inside the Narthex. They remediated the mold, and in early August we cleaned out the Meeting House and the basement under the Early Learning Center.

While we continue to make minor repairs and improvements to the Meeting House, we were also able to address the drainage problems in the lower parking lot. Work on the parking lot continues in the form of asphalt patches, seal coating, and relining.

The Memorial Garden is having some work done so that we can maintain it in a manner which honors the sacred memories of our loved ones. Over the next few weeks we are installing a sprinkler system and seeding the grass area. In the days ahead we will have regularly-scheduled work days to keep the Memorial Garden in good shape as we want it to be a place where people can come and enjoy some time of peace and remembrance. The initial funding for the majority of the work comes from memorial gifts given in honor of Joy Storm, who took such good care of the Memorial Garden. We are also grateful for Alex Houston, who will be spearheading the movement to beautify and maintain the garden.

Our church is blessed to have such a dedicated congregation to the service of Christ. Christ taught us to love one another. This congregation truly strives to do Christ's work whether with the homeless and hungry, or helping with a faraway disaster—people always step forward. For that, I am thankful.

On behalf of Buildings and Grounds, thank you for all your support.

The Early Learning Center welcomed all of our preschoolers on Tuesday, September 5th. This year we are adding Reggio Emilia—inspired practices in our program. Reggio Emilia is a town in Italy that began a progressive approach to early childhood education following World War II to help bring their community back together after the destructive events of the war. Since then, these schools have become a model for high quality and child-centered early learning practices around the world.

Reggio schools follow many principles that include the environment as the third teacher, the use of open-ended materials in the classroom, and a focus on children expressing ideas through many different “languages.”

Reggio schools respect that each child is unique, and they value the children’s natural learning processes through a curriculum that is based in “projects,” both large and small.

We are very excited about our new practices that we are introducing this year. We have openings in our program, and we offer flexible schedules and affordable pricing. Please help spread the word! Interested families can call Christine Fish, Director; Anneke Van Fossen, Education Coordinator; or Judi Boyle, teacher at (401) 322-0510 to schedule a tour.

Kid Kare is off to a great start. We are excited to have so many students enrolled in our before and afterschool-aged program. We have included a wish list for school supplies (a drop off box is in the ELC breezeway).

Reformation/The Kirkin' O' the Tartans Sunday

Reformation Sunday is October 29th. In the 1500's, after studying with John Calvin in Geneva, John Knox returned to Scotland and continued to urge the reforms that led to the creation of Presbyterianism. Local Presbyterian churches became known as kirks.

Tartans are an internationally recognized symbol of Scotland. Highlanders wore clothes with distinctive striped or checked patterns, and the growth of clan and family tartans became popular in the mid-18th Century. As part of the effort to bring Scottish Highlanders under control in the 1700's, the Act of Proscription was passed and the wearing of the tartan was banned. From that period came the legend of Highlanders secretly bringing pieces of tartan cloth into their kirks to be blessed. In the mid-1900's, Presbyterian Minister Reverend Peter Marshall gave a sermon at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church entitled "Kirkin' o' the Tartans" and the celebration was born out of subsequent services.

The people of God have celebrated their faith and heritage across time. Today churches of many denominations celebrate the Kirkin' O' the Tartan service. Our Church has deep roots in the community and those roots reach wide across cultures and traditions.

On Sunday, October 29th we are invited to bring to Worship items that are important to the spiritual life of our families. Certainly, those of Scottish heritage are encouraged to bring a piece of their family tartan. We are all invited to bring an item: a Bible, a prayer shawl, anything that is important to our worship life. These symbols of who we are and how we worship will be placed at the front of the church and as we worship will remind us of the great diversity among us and the unity and oneness our faith in Jesus Christ brings.

The Nomination Committee has been meeting to discuss candidates for our Boards and Committees. We appreciate the congregation's suggestions for our new leaders and those of you who have come forward and expressed interest in serving on a board/committee. The Nominating Committee will be announcing our recommendations after the 11 a.m. Worship on Sunday, November 5th.
